A: I don't think you can do that. In short, Google Drive doesn't have any fancy add-on that will let you do this. For example, you can't search for.docx in Google Drive's search bar as there's no such file type. from all of these measures, except for one factor, where both tests overlap significantly (the number of alternative expressions), showing that only this factor differentiated males and females. Since the factors of the self-report questionnaire that differentiate males and females overlap partially, we argue that there are several factors that might be able to distinguish males from females. The response of the items to which we assigned the lowest factor scores is presented in Fig. 2{ref-type="fig"}. Fig. 2 Items receiving the lowest factor scores. Fig. 2 The correlations between the factor scores of the questionnaire and the 3--7 items of the Barthel Index (total and for each dimension) are presented in Table 4{ref-type="table"}. The last column shows the intercorrelations between the questionnaire and the items of the Barthel Index.
