I want to run a php script (test.php) that grabs a json string which contains a list of serial numbers. I have the json string as a variable called $js. I'm trying to use the file() function to run test.php. I have tried several different formats for the file() function. The code I am using is below. If I echo the value of the $js variable, it looks like this: test.php: serial.txt file: { "number": ["1","2","3"] }, { "number": ["4","5","6"] } When I execute the file() function, it displays: Array ([0] => 4 [1] => 5 [2] => 6) If I then try to add the lines of code below to the $file variable, nothing happens.

$(document).ready(function(){ $.getJSON('url.com/test.php?data=' + encodeURIComponent(),function(result) { if(result.number) { console.log('Number of results:' + result.number.length); for (var i=0;i' + result.number[i] + "; } } })); }); A: You are using $_GET["data"] which is not the same as $js and is giving an empty result. Remove the "data" from $.getJSON and it should work. $js = file_get_contents('serial.txt'); $js = json_decode($js d0c515b9f4
