A: preg_replace() will take an array of patterns to match and substitute, so the following should work for your needs:
$search_array = array("\u00adbazadedateaccessgatafacutemanual bazadedateaccessgatafacutemanual by

jes"); $replace_array = array("", " Â·
Samsung Galaxy Pro 8 x Pro Quad-Camera Serial Number Keygen - ians", " by "); $str = " ; $str = preg_replace($search_array, $replace_array, $str); echo $str ;

PHPFiddle EDIT: So the problem is, you are escaping the hyphens in the HTML with /, so preg_replace() only sees ' as one hyphenated pattern. Use \- in your patterns if you want to match hyphens in the HTML. If you want to match multiple instances, you could use a preg_replace_callback() method: $str =
